a pm spirits project

No, your eyes are not deceiving you. The spirit nerds at PM Spirits have bottled some Sherry. Why? Because we like Sherry too.

We're fortunate to be friends with some of the most respected folks in the Sherry industry, and during our travels to Jerez for work on the Navazos Palazzi brand, we would constantly be drinking some of the most incredible Sherry.

We thought – why not blend and bottle some of these extraordinary casks and bring them back to the US? So that's what we did.

With the expert help of our dear friend Eduardo Ojeda – chief winemaker at Valdespino and La Guita for decades, co-owner of cult sherry bottlers Equipo Navazos, and senior advisor to Grupo Estévez, perhaps the most revered Sherry bodega in Spain – we have bottled four expressions of the finest fortified wine that Jerez has to offer.

BASICS + KEY DEFINITIONS

- Sherry is a fortified wine made from white grapes grown in the Jerez region of Spain.
- The main grape used is Palomino, accounting for over 98% of vine plantings. Others include Pedro Ximénez and Moscatel.
- It is produced in a range of styles from bone-dry Fino to nutty Oloroso to sweet PX.
- There are two main categories of dry sherry – biologically aged, which ages under a layer of yeast called flor, and oxidatively aged, which ages without flor and interacts with oxygen.
- Most Sherry ages in a solera system, which is a method of fractional blending using groups of barrels called criaderas. A solera produces wines that are a continuous blend of vintages.
- Sherry maturation is done in bodegas. These are buildings specifically designed with the aging process in mind.

PM Spirits Project Sherries are the brainchild of Nicolas Palazzi, owner of PM Spirits, and Eduardo Ojeda, chief winemaker at Valdespino and La Guita for decades, co-owner of cult sherry bottlers Equipo Navazos, and senior advisor to famed bodega Grupo Estévez. Spurred by Palazzi's visits to Jerez to work on the Navazos Palazzi brand and fueled by the remarkable Sherries consumed on said visits, this collection of four traditional styles is a testament to the knowledge of the winemakers, the palate of the blenders, and the passion for quality shared by Palazzi and Ojeda.

This first saca comes from a Fino solera that has aged in a bodega in El Puerto de Santa María. It has spent the entirety its time aging beneath a veil of flor. Typically used for blending purposes, this remarkable solera has never previously been bottled on its own.

This Amontillado Sherry is a blend of several casks from criaderas housed at a highly respected bodega with roots in the late 1800s. The wine is selected for its finesse after fermentation, is fortified to 15% abv, and then ages under flor for 8-10 years. The wine then loses its flor and ages several more years oxidatively.
